"I am very impressed with Exodus's ethical approach to tourism. Julio, the tour leader, and Jonny the second tour guide were passionate about their country, culture and supports their local communities ... The Exodus porters were treated much better than all other groups we encountered. Some were carrying up to 35kg weight and they were also ill-equipped for the weather. One of the porters was suffering effects of hyperthermia. Hence, some of our group and Exodus porters helped him by taking some of his load and giving him clothing and food to help him to the next camp ... I hope that other companies take note and start to treat their porters better."
